Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following:

In paragraph 0040, roller 185 is incorrect; in paragraph 0042, elements 99 and 49 are not found; in paragraph 0045, sections 287 are not found; in paragraph 0046, 291 and 293 are not found

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-11,13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, as well as other claims, "essentially" renders the scope of the claim indefinite.

In claim 13, there is no antecedent basis for "the inner side legs".

In claim 14, it is unclear as to what is being referred to by "same".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States;

Claims 1,2,6 and 8-12,14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Volz.

The disclosure indicates that the panels are not connected by "means being arranged therebetween". There are interengaging protrusions and recesses that meet the broad definition of "tongue and groove". Any of rails 2 and rollers may be considered "offset rails" and "offset rollers". The term "essentially" renders the associated limitations extremely broad and easily met. The rails meet the broad limitation "counter bearing device". Claims 12 and 14 are extremely broad and read on any rails that are not colinear, such as in Volz. The method of making the rails, i.e. extrusion or casting, are not considered in these article claims.

Claims 1-7 and 9-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Watanabe et al.

See Fig. 5 which provides horizontal and vertical C-shaped rails, some of which may be called offset rails as well as a "counter bearing device". The panels are joined but not by "connecting means", which associated negative limitation is broad and easily met by structure joining the panels. Alternatively, the means for joining the panels are not "between" the panels but at the side edges thereof. the panels are joined at tongue and groove interfaces. See lift lever 4 which is a "track" for "lift roller" 15. See also counter bearing rails 1c. Claims 12-14 are extremely broad and read on any rails that are not colinear, such as in Watanabe. The method of making the rails, i.e. extrusion or casting, are not considered in these article claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
